The Banqueting Room

Originally the dining room of the RAMC regimental Mess, the ceiling is elaborately decorated in late 17th century-style plasterwork. Beneath it you will find rich wood panelling which creates a room of inspiring grandeur.

The Red Room

Daylight floods through windows on two sides, with a panoramic view overlooking the Thames.

The Green Room

An original mahogany staircase sweeps you up and into the Green Room which offers a more relaxed and intimate interior. The room has a sense of space and light with pale washed walls and panelling as well as tall casement windows that offer views over the Thames and across to Tate Britain.
