

KENSINGTON PALACE

The Orangery

Situated within its own private grounds in the heart of Kensington Palace, the Orangery combines the privilege of access to a royal palace with a serene rural ambience in the centre of the capital. The graceful interior of the building with its imposing yet elegant architecture lends itself to formal dinners.

The Red Saloon

Step back into the 19th century in the Red Saloon, decorated to give an impression of its appearance when it was occupied by the Duchess of Kent and Princess Victoria. The rich detail and opulent design of the Red Saloon combine to create an ambience appropriate to a royal palace steeped in history and provide a unique backdrop for dinners or receptions.

The Teck Saloon

The Teck Saloon occupies part of the site of Nottingham House, purchased by William III and Mary II in 1689. These rooms were rebuilt for George I in the 1720s and later re-modelled by James Wyatt to provide accommodation for the Duke and Duchess of Kent and the young Princess Victoria. The Teck Saloon is currently decorated in the style of a royal apartment of the 1860s. This exquisite design and decoration lends itself to intimate dinners.

The North Drawing Room

The North Drawing Room is one of the most historically important rooms in the palace due to significant event that took place in 1819. It was here that the Duchess of Kent gave birth to her daughter. The room has recently been restored to reflect its appearance in the early 19th century, creating a unique historic atmosphere for your function. The North Drawing Room is available for an intimate dinner, reception or presentation.
